Comments	This is a beautiful historic garden with many old trees and a wonderful tranquil feel, harnessed to fabulous old buildings. I realise that the site needs investment but this is not the right option. Developing the plot and property into a public attraction (ie a story museum like in Oxford, or similar) with a cafe and open the gardens to access the adjacent park would be a drawcard for all, and be commercially viable. There are so many brownfield sites ripe for this kind of housing development in Trowbridge, but this is so obviously not one of them; it would be an appalling tragedy if it went ahead.
